Perception and Stubbornness

A captain notices a light in the distance that is on a collision course with his ship. He turns on his signal lamp and sends, "Change your course 10 degrees west."

The light signals back, "Change yours 10 degrees east."

The Captain gets a little annoyed. He signals, "I'm a US Navy Captain. You must change your course, sir."

The light signals back, "I'm a Seaman First Class. You must change your course, sir."

Now, the Captain is mad. He signals, "I'm an aircraft carrier. I'm not changing course."

The light signals back a final message: "I'm a lighthouse. Your call."

When perception and stubbornness combine, we can be on a collision course in our relationships, decision-making, strategic planning, and overall leadership. This week, let's shine the correct light on the facts and accurate information in all that we do. Our "life's course" may just avoid a fatal collision!

Navigate well this week!
